Public Session
Sophia Laskaris	Ms. Laskaris stated that her family comes from a long line of street vendors, with her parents arriving in the 1950s and being able to buy a home and send three children to college with their earnings from vending. Street vending has always been a path for the City’s diverse group of new arrivals to earn a living and become productive members of society. But now, they have been hindered in their efforts by constant police harassment, excessive fines by the Health Department, and by obstacles created by business owners.
Sonia Perez	Ms. Perez presented her personal story in Spanish with the help of an interpreter. She has worked for many years assisting street vendors in their quest to get Intro 1116 passed by the City Council. And, although 29 members of the Council support the law, Speaker Johnson has not put it up for a vote. Ms. Perez noted that the current street vendor laws have been in effect since the 1980s and need to be changed to allow for more vendor permits.
Mohamed E-Sherif	Mr. E-Sherif has been a vendor for ten years and has operated a food cart on West 34th Street since 2014, before the completion of the 7 Train and Hudson Yards. His presence was welcomed during the construction phase of Hudson Yards, but that changed when the project was completed. He complained of being a constant target of health inspectors, the NYPD and the Parks Department inspectors who have the common goal of removing his food cart from its current location. He recalled a day when 22 inspectors showed up together and 15 minutes later left without finding any violations. He is from one of 25 families that operate 8 food trucks; every one of them has had similar problems.
Nazih Attia	Mr. Attia also operates a food cart in Hudson Yards. He complained of being harassed by a building owner who placed planters in his regular location, forcing him to move.
Juan Salas	Mr. Salas is disabled and has worked as a street vendor for 15 years with a license but has been unable to obtain a permit.
Heleodora Vivar-Flores	Ms. Flores spoke about vendor issues in Spanish with the aid of an interpreter. She too has worked for many years as a license-holder lacking a permit. She requested the Board’s support in having Speaker Johnson put Intro 1116 up for a vote. Working without a permit puts her at risk of arrest and having her property confiscated.

Sari Kisilevsky	Ms. Kisilevsky is an associate professor at Queens College CUNY who has been working with the Street Vendors Project. She argued against the notions that street vendors add to street congestion and draw business away from small businesses. She asserted that vendors usually set up in natural alcoves away from sidewalk traffic and add foot traffic in underserved areas, which benefits small businesses. She stated that there is no evidence that vendors actually compete with brick and mortar stores; the evidence seems to suggest an opposite reality where vendors are complimentary to small businesses.
Elrana Jaramillo	Ms. Jaramillo, a resident of Washington Heights, was aided by an interpreter in requesting support from the Board with respect to the passage of Intro 1116. She noted that Speaker Johnson gave his support to bicycle delivery workers but withheld his support for street vendors even though they come from the same class of low-income immigrant workers. She believes that the vendor permit system needs to be reformed since the number of allowable permits has been frozen for more than 30 years.
Emily Rosenzweig	Ms. Rosenzweig is a staff member of the Street Vendor Project, a coalition with more than 2,000 vendor members in the City who are working to secure fair working conditions for street vendors. All of the previous speakers are members of SVP. The group has been fighting for permits for many years and almost got a bill passed in 2016. The current bill – 1116-A – has majority support in the Council and only needs Speaker Johnson’s action to be passed into law. The current cap on vendor permits has been in effect since 1983 resulting in long waiting lists that can last for as long as 20 years. One provision of 1116 would gradually increase the number of food vending permits available, adding 445 new permits per year over a period of ten years. There are about 20,000 people on the waiting list now. The SVP is asking CB4 to pass a resolution in support of 1116.
Josephine Ishman	Ms. Ishman, a public member of the Board, announced a public meeting of the ACES Committee along with Community Boards 1 and 2 to conduct a panel discussion on students with learning disabilities. It will be held on Monday, December 9 at the Quest to Learn Middle School, located at 351 West 18th Street, from 6:30 – 8:30 pm.
Michael Prichinello	Mr. Prichinello of Renn Sport Union announced an event that it will co-sponsor with the Classic Car Club on December 14 from 10 am – 1 pm at Pier 76 at Hudson River Park.
Maia Berlow	Ms. Berlow is Senator Brad Hoylman’s community liaison to CB4 who announced a public conversation with the Senator and NYS Attorney General Tish James to discuss New York’s progressive future. It will be held on December 16 from 6:30 – 7:30 pm at the CUNY Graduate Center, 365 Fifth Avenue.
Miriam Fisher	Ms. Fisher represents the Elevator Action Group which advocates for making subways 100% accessible with the inclusion of elevators, escalators, and ramps for people with disabilities and others who need them to access the subway system. There is a plan that has the support of the Governor and Speaker Johnson, but she fears that there is no meaningful provision for funding at the MTA. She asked that people participate at her rallies and send postcards to the Governor. She provided postcards that were pre-addressed and stamped for that purpose.
Bobby Robaina	Mr. Robaina works in the Office of Government Relations at the Fashion Institute of Technology. He made the following announcements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A new exhibition is opening at the Museum at FIT on December 10. Power Mode: The Force of Fashion will explore the multiple roles fashion plays in challenging power dynamics within society. The show will feature 50 objects from the museum’s permanent collection, many of which have never before been on public view. • Fashion-Schools.org has named FIT the number one college for fashion design and fashion merchandising in its 2019 rankings.

Tom Mullaney	Mr. Mullaney is a resident of West 26th Street near the Ainsworth Bar which has been a longstanding problem in the neighborhood. He stated that the bar had been raided the night before and shut down for underage drinking and operating as a nightclub without a license. Multiple arrests were made as well. It reopened the following day.
Joni Bokser	Mr. Bokser, who is a member of the Board, made an announcement on his own behalf regarding an event that will be held at FIT on December 10 from 6:30 – 7:30 pm. The New York State Governor’s Office of Motion Picture and Television Development, FIT, and The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel will host a conversation with award-winning American costume designer Donna Zakowska.
Marni Halasa	Ms. Halasa is a member of the community group Community Control of Land Use New York. The group supports the Small Business Jobs Survival Act in the City Council and is pushing Speaker Johnson to hold the public hearing to debate it that he promised. The bill gives commercial tenants a minimum 10-year lease at a fair rent, the right to renew that lease, and mandatory arbitration to negotiate rent increases.
Hatim Bakr	Mr. Bakr operates a coffee cart in Hudson Yards. He complained that the businesses in the Hudson Yards development have banded together to have his cart shut down by making complaints to the NYPD, Parks Department and Health Department.

Remarks from Elected Officials and Representatives
Senator Robert Jackson	The Senator was accompanied by his policy director Michael Levy who distributed copies of the Community Update. Mr. Jackson gave the following updates: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • He attended a property tax roundtable earlier in the day where the sensitive issue of property tax reform was discussed. He noted that the issue has been avoided by the City Council in the past but needs to be addressed. • There was a recent public hearing on foundation aid during which it was revealed by the CFO of the NYC Board of Education that the City is missing about $1.1 billion in aid from Albany according to a formula that was enacted into law under Governor Spitzer. • There will be a holiday party at the district office located at 213th Street and Broadway on December 11 from 4 – 7 pm. There will also be a workshop on re-envisioning public schools at the Castle Hill School on December 17 from 6 – 8 pm.
Brian Lewis for Borough President Gale Brewer	Mr. Lewis presented recent updates: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The first meeting of the Chelsea NYCHA Working Group was held in November and the BP looks forward to upcoming meetings where alternative sources of funding for NYCHA will be explored. • The website for community board applications and reapplications is now live at manhattanbp.nyc.gov/cbapplications. Paper applications are also acceptable, but the online form is preferred and has been made easier to complete. • A public hearing of the Religious Facilities Task Force was held in November with 70 people in attendance. The Task Force supports religious congregations by upholding preservation and neighborhood vitality. The next meeting will be held in January. • The BP has a discretionary budget to support organizations in the borough. Applications for Capital Grants will open soon; Cultural Tourism Grants are now open. Non-profit and cultural organizations are encouraged to apply. • There will be a workshop to share protocol and procedural information on street co-naming in January or February.

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The 4th Annual Holiday Diaper Drive that the BP holds in partnership with the Foodbank for NYC and the Girl Scout Council of Greater New York has begun and will run through January 31. Donations can be made via the Food Bank’s Amazon Wish List or in person at the BP’s offices at 1 Centre Street or 431 West 125th Street.
Matt Tighe for Assemblymember Dick Gottfried	Mr. Tighe gave the following updates: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Over the past couple of months, Mr. Gottfried has been traveling across the state with State Senator Rivera to gather testimony about the New York Health Act. They have held public hearings in the Bronx, Rockland County and along the Hudson Valley. The bill, which will be reintroduced in the next session, is now two votes short of a majority in the senate. The State Finance Commission announced its recommendations on the statewide public finance system. It addressed third party qualifications and Mr. Gottfried believes it should never have been a part of their considerations in the first place. He believes that the legislature should come together to undo what he considers an undemocratic scheme. The Assembly will return to Albany on January 8th and one priority that will be immediately taken up is a $4 billion shortfall in the Medicaid budget. Mr. Gottfried seeks to address this by not cutting any critical services but by raising revenue from taxes assessed on the wealthiest New Yorkers.
Kevin Jean Baptiste for D.A. Cyrus Vance	Mr. Jean Baptiste made two brief announcements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The D.A.’s Office has expanded citywide its supervised-release program that was begun in 2016 with $13.6 million in asset forfeiture funding. The program allows the D.A. to ask a judge for supervised release instead of bail. It has proved to be very successful. In November, D.A. Vance announced the Vehicular Violence Accountability Act alongside sponsors Senators Tim Kennedy and Brad Hoylman. The legislation was drafted by the D.A.’s office upon the recommendation of a special grand jury empaneled by D.A. Vance. The law would enable more prosecutions of dangerous drivers by creating a new article of the Penal Law titled “Vehicular Violence,” and establishing the new crimes of “Death By Vehicle,” a class A misdemeanor, and “Serious Physical Injury by Vehicle,” a class B misdemeanor. Mr. Jean Baptiste thanked CB4’s Transportation Committee for its input and support.
Taylor Abbruzzese for Congresswoman Carolyn Maloney	Ms. Abbruzzese gave the following updates: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Last month Congresswoman Maloney was elected permanent Chairwoman of the House Committee on Oversight and Reform – the first woman to hold that position. In addition to her work on the Impeachment Inquiry, she and representatives Velazquez and Nadler introduced legislation to ban non-essential helicopter flights over the City. The Judiciary Committee passed a resolution in support of the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution, something that the Congresswoman has been working on during her entire career. A bill to create a Women’s History Museum co-sponsored by Rep. Maloney passed in committee. The Debbie Smith Reauthorization Act of 2019 also passed in the House. As her first official act as Chairwoman of the Oversight Committee, Ms. Maloney filed a lawsuit against Attorney General Barr and commerce secretary Wilbur Ross for failure to produce subpoenaed documents regarding President Trump’s attempt to add a citizenship question to the 2020 census.
Phillip Ellison for Public Advocate Jumaane Williams	Mr. Ellison reviewed Mr. Williams’s background as a housing and education activist, and City Council member before becoming Public Advocate. He also compared Mr. Williams’s predecessor Tish James’s approach to the office as one focused on the legal process and Mr. Williams’s reliance on community organizing, policy and legislation as a way to achieve success. He noted that Mr. Williams has already taken part in introducing legislation in the City Council and will continue to do so.
